National Handloom Day is commemorated in India on August 7 each year. The main goal is to pay tribute to the huge handloom community in the country for their contribution to carrying on the traditional heritage and ensuring financial stability.

National Handloom Day is observed in India to raise public awareness about the handloom sector and its significance to the nation's socio-economic development.

It also aims to preserve India's handloom tradition and to provide more prospects for the people associated with the handloom industry.

The goal also remains to safeguard the long-term viability of the Indian textile sector, thereby economically strengthening handloom artisans and fostering pride in their fine artistry.
